

24 Lecture - CS101

Important Subjective

1. What is a spreadsheet? A spreadsheet is a software program used to organize, analyze and manipulate data.
2. What are the advantages of using a spreadsheet? Some advantages of using a spreadsheet include easy data organization and manipulation, quick updates to data, and the ability to create charts and graphs for data visualization.
3. What are the limitations of using a spreadsheet? Limitations of using a spreadsheet include potential errors, difficulties in maintaining consistency, and performance issues when working with large data sets.
4. What is a cell in a spreadsheet? A cell is a rectangular box in a spreadsheet that can hold data, including text, numbers, and formulas.
5. What are the formulas in a spreadsheet? Formulas are equations used in a spreadsheet to perform calculations on data.
6. What is the difference between a row and a column in a spreadsheet? A row is a horizontal line of cells in a spreadsheet, while a column is a vertical line of cells.
7. How can a spreadsheet be used in finance? A spreadsheet can be used to track income and expenses, create budgets, and perform financial analyses.
8. How can a spreadsheet be used in scientific research? A spreadsheet can be used to organize and analyze experimental data.
9. How can multiple users work on the same spreadsheet simultaneously? Multiple users can work on the same spreadsheet simultaneously by using collaboration tools such as shared folders or cloud-based software.

10. What is the most popular spreadsheet program? Microsoft Excel is the most popular spreadsheet program and is used by millions of people around the world.